REPORT OF THE SELECTMEN.

In 1909 the town appropriated $150.00 to build a shed at the town house. The matter has been put over from year to year, as it has been found that a shed, such as is needed, cannot be built for that sum of money. The road machine, road roller, ploughs, scrapers, drags and all tools belonging to the town need to be housed and a larger appropriation is recommended.

An iron and cement bridge has been built at Slab City at a cost of $718.75, exceeding the appropriation by $218.75. It was found that a safe bridge could not be built within the appropriation.

The money for state highway was expended upon the Black Hall road. To widen and straighten it a small strip of land was bought of Albert O. Ordway at a cost of $10.00. The work has not been completed and we recommend that an appropriation be made to continue it.

We have maintained six schools the past year. Last spring the Mountain school was so small that it was necessary to close it and have the pupils conveyed to other schools, nearly all attending the New Rye school.

Agreeable to a vote of the district at the school meeting in March to unite with other districts in forming a supervisory district, the school board accepted a very cordial invitation from the towns of Pembroke and Hooksett to unite with them. Mr. Otis H. Adams, who was holding the position of superintendent in those towns was elected as superintendent for the new district for the year beginning July 15, 1911. It has proved a very satisfactory arrangement, and the schools are progressing. The most of our teachers have remained with us the entire year. There has been only one complete change in books, those being the language books. We have bought some geographies and other much needed readers.

We have had the Short Falls schoolhouse shingled, the Center schoolhouse painted inside and made several other minor repairs that were necessary. The enumeration of the children in the district between the ages of five and sixteen years gave eighty-five boys and fifty-two girls, a total of one hundred and thirty-seven. For the amount to be raised for high school tuition and books and supplies, we would recommend $400 for high school tuition and $150 for books and supplies.

For further information we refer you to the superintendent's report, and the statistics.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board and Citizens of Epsom:

I herewith submit my first annual report as superintendent of schools. My time of service covers less than six months of actual school work so it is much too early to speak of results. A presentation of conditions as I found them with predictions of possible results may be interesting.

Six schools were opened in September with six willing teachers, all desirous to aid in plans for supervision. Without exception, my work has been greatly facilitated by this corps of workers who had been almost entirely without experience in working with a superintendent.

A hurried visit was made to each school in May, but the actual work of supervision began in September. Proceeding slowly and with careful consideration of each problem, almost the first duty was the imperative one of grading pupils, of reducing the large number of recitations, of getting the individual pupil into the classes where he could make the best of himself and to assist the teacher in making programs where there would be no lost time.

A considerable number of pupils were found whose age and length of time in school might have prepared them for the high school or academy last year under other conditions. The work of getting this class into shape for a higher school is an important one this year and if it is done satisfactorily, it will reflect credit on the several teachers with eighth grades.

No claim is made that mistakes were not made in grading the schools, but each pupil was and is being studied carefully by the superintendent and if thought to be mature enough for higher or more advanced work, the teacher is consulted and the child given his chance. Many cases have been found and children given opportunity of advancing with higher classes. The good effects of grading and close study of the needs of the individual with reduced number of daily recitations for each teacher are already manifest.

No list of working tools, books, supplies, or maps was found and classes were seriously handicapped for lack of material, sometimes lying idle in another school and often not in stock. As early as was possible, an inventory was made of all books, an account opened with each school, a record kept of all supplies issued, and a system of exchange of books between schools by the superintendent was begun. The books have been listed, classified, graded and stamped and a central stock room opened at Short Falls. A complete account is kept by the superintendent and each teacher has a copy of the account against her school. It is evident that many books have been lost in past days, but under this system, each teacher is held responsible for all books charged to her school and shrinkages except as books are worn out should be small.

A year ago your school board made a wise choice in selecting a new speller for the schools. In the summer the old language books and grammars were replaced by newer books that conform closely to the state course of study. The arithmetics and part of the histories in use are excellent books. New geographies should replace the old ones as soon as possible and additions need to be made to the work in music. The greatest need in books was and still is in amount of suitable reading material, particularly in the lower grades. But three copies of first grade readers were found in all the schools. The practice of putting first-year children into second-grade readers soon after entering school is responsible for much of the poor reading that is found. One set of new readers has been purchased for each of the first four grades, but this is only a beginning of what is needed to be done. An adequate supply cannot be furnished in one year or two, but with a careful expenditure of available funds, each year and the purchasing of books suited to the needs of the respective classes along definite lines, desired results may be reached. The average length of life of books in upper grades is about seven years and in the lower grades about three years, so allowances must always be made for keeping up stock.

I have made the better teaching of primary reading a work of great importance. Teachers were found teaching beginners by the a, b, c, method, a method long since condemned by all educators, and in the teaching of which one to two years is always lost from the first years at school. Any system that gives children large recognizable vocabularies, in the shortest possible space of time, that teaches reading with expression and that gives ability to read with ease is what the schools need. The word, sentence and phonic method was introduced early in the year and the first grade is already reading their first book, generally with pleasure and ease. Today nearly every scholar in this class has a vocabulary of from one hundred to two hundred fifty words and at the end of the year no child of average ability, with careful work by the teacher, should have less than five to eight hundred words in his vocabulary. As teachers become more skilful and experienced each child finishing the first year should have from fourteen to sixteen hundred words that he can recognize and use. All familiar with former ways of teaching primary reading, know this is a great advance and will save children one or two years' loss of time in their school days.

Other important work has been done by teachers and superintendent towards unifying and making more serviceable the work in spelling, arithmetic and history.

Your superintendent feels greatly encouraged over the prospects in Epsom. The parents are interested, the children are worthy, the teachers are reliable. The present policy, consistently followed with the growing sympathy of all parents and taxpayers, will prove, beyond question, in a short time its value to the school children of the town. Careful, constant oversight and direction from some one who has both time and knowledge of modern needs is required with the keeping in service so far as is possible of all faithful teachers.

My official and personal reception in Epsom has been most pleasant and encouraging. The school board through its chairman, has been a constant help and encouragement.

Respectfully submitted,

O. H. ADAMS.
